

They are born in different timezones, so the time is different in the two countries in which they were born. To explain why they have different birthdays, one child must have been born before midnight and the other child must have been born after midnight. The date changes at midnight, so they would have different birthdays. Whatever time it is, there are always two places in the world that have two different dates!