I have a dream.

A dream that there will be no racism,

A dream that everyone should hear.

A dream that no one will be treated differently because of their colour,

A dream that would change the whole world.

A dream that will stop coloured people from getting shot,

A dream that coloured people can feel safe on the streets.

A dream that should be spread across the whole world,

A dream that will make every life matter.

I have a dream.

A dream that our world was full of peace,

A dream that people wouldn't have to worry about wars.

A dream that would change the world for good,

A dream that everyone can live freely.

A dream that will make our world happy,

A dream that will happen if we make a big change.

I have a dream.

A dream that will stop pollution,

A dream that will destroy all the smoke in the air.

A dream that will let us people breathe fresh air,

A dream that will cause not any deaths to pollution.

A dream that would save our planet as it is falling apart rapidly,

A dream that will save lives .

I have dreams.

Erin~